

Recommender System using Amazon reviews

The data contains following attributes:

- `userId` : Every user identified with a unique id
 - `productId` : Every product identified with a unique id
 - `Rating` : Rating of the corresponding product by the corresponding user
 - `timestamp` : Time of the rating
-
- a. While reading the dataset , relative headers were added.
 - b. The `info()` method on the dataframe in which the data has been read, is applied to check the null values if any.
 - c. `dataset.isnull().sum()` is checked to check again for the null values
 - d. the dataset is relatively clean and do not contain any null values
 - e. the timestamp column is dropped as it is of no relevance here